Now, please look at page 2 of the information material.

I’d like to talk about the circumstances and background of this investment.

Challenger is ranked No.1 in the annuity market in Australia, and the company recently had an eye to the growing annuity market in Japan and looked for a way to expand its business in Japan.

On the other hand, MSI Primary Life of our Group was constantly seeking to diversify hedges against risk in association with business expansion as a leading company in the annuity market in Japan, and accordingly, the business with Challenger was started in the form of reinsurance last year.

With Challenger we began negotiation for a tie-up centered on reinsurance of Mitsui Sumitomo Primary Life Insurance, one of our Group companies mainly specialized in Australian dollar-denominated asset-building life insurance products, since the second half of FY2015 and the reinsurance business was launched in November 2016.

After that, MSI Primary Life has dispatched a trainee to Challenger to strengthen the alliance.

From the Challenger side, a proposal to enhance the alliance was made including equity participation, which was considered to provide a great advantage for our Group as well because it will enable us to tap into the growing Australian annuity market and diversify business risks. This is the reason we decided to strengthen the strategic partnership.

We are planning to make an investment with acquisition of around 10% stake in Challenger through a Challenger allotment of newly issued shares scheduled on the 23rd this month and following additional purchases in the market.
In addition, we will further strengthen the alliance as reliable strategic partners.
The next point I’d like to explain is the outline of this investment.
Please look at page 3 of the information material.

This investment is made in the form of subscription of newly issued Challenger shares through a Challenger allotment. Total amount of shares acquired is 500 million Australian dollars, which is about 44.0 billion yen, and the acquisition ratio is about 6.3%.

The acquisition date of new shares is scheduled on August 23.

Although depending on the market conditions and regulatory authorization status, we intend to grow the acquisition ratio to approximately 10% through additional acquisition of shares via market.
Let’s move on to pages 4 and 5 of the information material.

I’m going to talk about the outline of Challenger Limited.

Challenger Limited is an Australian financial services Group which has a life insurance business and fund management business.

It is ranked first in individual annuity market in Australia in terms of total assets and sales and ranked seventh in funds management business.

In terms of its brand, sales network, service, technology, and other areas, Challenger has significant presence in the annuity market in Australia, which is expected to enjoy a significant growth given the advance of aging of population and the increase in the numbers of retirees.

Taking advantage of the synergy of the annuity business, which is highly competitive, and the asset management business, which has strengths in the range of asset classes, Challenger has established a unique business model and realized sustainable growth in earnings on the back of the expanding annuity market.
3. Outline of Challenger Limited

- The management philosophy of Challenger is compatible with the mission of the MS&AD Insurance Group. We can form a business partnership with shared values.

Challenger’s Strengths

- Compatibility between the management philosophy of Challenger, “To provide our customers with financial security for retirement,” and MS&AD’s mission, “Bringing security and safety through the global insurance and financial services business”

- Compliance
  - Being responsible for how and what we do

In addition, the management philosophy of Challenger, “To provide our customers with financial security for retirement” is compatible with MS&AD’s mission, “Bringing security and safety through the global insurance and financial services business.”

Challenger’s Five Principles have shared many points with the Values of the MS&AD Group. Therefore, we can form a business partnership with shared values.
Then, I’d like to talk about its strategic significances.
Please look at page 6 of the information material.

We think this investment has three strategic rationales.
The first point is strengthening the alliance between Challenger and MSI Primary Life.
The second point is further diversification of the business portfolio.
The third point is pursuing synergies in the entire Group.
As I mentioned earlier, reinsurance transactions between Challenger and MSI Primary Life started last year.

Because reinsurance for life insurance sometimes requires a very long-term commitment, it has become necessary for MSI Primary Life to diversify hedges against risk in association with business expansion from the view point of credit management. As one of the measures for diversification, the stable reinsurance relationship with Challenger has contributed a lot for the achievement of stable growth of MSI Primary Life.

We are intending to further strengthen the alliance for joint development of new products using Challenger’s achievements and expertise in the annuity market in Australia and acquisition of Challenger’s risk management expertise, including super-long longevity risk.
Please take a look at page 8 of the information material.

MS&AD Group has expanded its overseas life insurance business with minor investments in Asian region, and now we are expanding the business into Australia.

Challenger is ranked top in the industry based on a unique business model specializing in annuity insurance.

MS&AD Group is the only group among domestic mega non-life insurance groups that possesses a life insurance company which deals with investment-type insurance products, MSI Primary Life. By taking advantage of our edge, we are going to tap into the Australian market in a different area from those where preceding major life insurance companies have already advanced into.

We think that the risk diversification effect is derived from two potentials, one is growth of the expanding annuity market in Australia and the other is acquisition of overseas credit investment opportunities.
First, I’m going to talk about incorporating the growth of the individual annuity market in Australia.

Please look at page 9 of the information material.

Australia is expected to face an increase in the elderly population in the future, and the annuity asset management market for retirees is estimated to expand fourfold over the next 20 years under the Australian retirement annuity system called superannuation.

At present, most of the annuity assets for retirees are invested in products without principal guarantee such as investment trust and stock. However, partly due to the Government’s policy, it is expected that principal guaranteed products will further expand.

Challenger has an significant recognition and share of 90% of the market of principal guaranteed products, so that it is expected to develop significantly in the future.

Through this investment, MS&AD Group is planning to incorporate this growing market.
Next, I’d like to explain the acquisition of overseas credit investment opportunities. Please turn to page 10 of the information material.

Challenger is good at managing a highly profitable portfolio centered on corporate bonds, asset-backed securities (ABS) and real estate in the Australian markets.

Through this investment, we are aiming to advance into overseas credit investments, which MS&AD Group has not implemented so much, to generate earnings for the Group.
Lastly, I’d like to talk about synergies in the entire Group.
Please look at page 11 of the information material.

Challenger has realized quite high recognition and customer satisfaction in the market by concentrating its resources on the annuity and fund management businesses. Although its business model is different from ours, we would like to see their schemes and apply them for the improvement of MS & AD Group’s brand power and services. Through the alliance and personal exchange, we will seek to build a long-term strategic relationship with Challenger and work to bring growth opportunities by harnessing its know-how, networks and other strengths on a group-wide basis.

After this slide, information material on Challenger’s growth potential and profitability is provided for your reference. Please refer to it later.

We believe that developing the trust relationship between MSI Primary Life and Challenger, which we have steadily built up through product development and reinsurance business, into strategic partners through this investment and accumulating our achievements will raise the corporate value of the Group.

This is the end of my presentation.
Thank you very much.
